POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

Veteran leaders in the State Legislature, looking forward to a period of close cooperation between the executive and legislative branches of government during Governor-elect Earl Warren's administration, are forecasting that the 1943 session, which convenes in January, will chalk up a new record for unity and brevity.

Instead of a long-drawn-out session running into June or July, the legislative leaders believe it will be possible to whip through necessary wartime legislation in record time and reach an adjournment by the middle of April, or not later than the first of May.

Both the Senate and Assembly, in all likelihood, will have unusually capable presiding officers, who will be able to step-up legislative production and avert needless delay in acting on the biennial budget and other major proposals.

Lieutenant Governor-elect Fred Houser, who proved himself an able, clear-thinking legislator during his years in the Assembly, will wield the gavel in the Senate and will undoubtedly have the whole-hearted cooperation of the members in gearing procedure to war-time needs. In past sessions, most of the legislative log-jams have occurred in the lower house, but current indications point to the election of Assemblyman Charles W. Lyon of Los Angeles, perhaps the smartest tactician and parliamentarian in the Legislature, as Speaker of the Assembly. And Mr. Lyon can be depended upon to put punch into proceedings. He has already indicated that he plans to simplify the cumbersome committee structure of the House.

The major objective of the 1942 Legislature, it is generally agreed, will be to aid Governor-elect Warren in putting the state on an all-out war basis—and bills already are being drawn to achieve that purpose. Included in the "war legislation" schedule are proposals to strengthen the State Guard, to build a more adequate Civilian Defense, to adopt a 35-mile an hour speed limit in conformity with national policy, to provide for day time nurseries for the children of women in war industries, to aid cities and counties in meeting war emergency problems, to eliminate non-essential, non-defense agencies and to reduce state taxes so that the taxpayer will be better able to meet increased Federal burdens.

The incoming Legislature will be confronted with more serious problems than any other in recent years, due to the dislocations and demands of the war period. But the members believe they will be able to handle a much greater volum of work in less time, as a result of the fact that the bitter feud between the Governor and the lawmakers which marred the four years of Governor Olson's administration, will be at an end.

The keynote of the 1943 Legislature, according to its members, will be unity. And unity, they believe, will beget brevity!

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION 1942

By The President Of The United States of America

" 'It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord." Across the uncertain ways of space and time our hearts echo those words, for the days are with us again when, at the gathering of the harvest, we solemnly express our dependence upon Almighty God.

"The final months of this year, now almost spent, find our Republic and the nations joined with it waging a battle on many fronts for the preservation of liberty.

"In giving thanks for the greatest harvest in the history of our Nation, we who plant and reap can well resolve that in the year to come we will do all in our power to share some part of the sacrifice with out brothers and sons who wear the uniform of the United States.

"It is fitting that we recall now the reverent words of George Washington:

" 'Almighty God, we make our earnest prayer that thou wilt keep the United States in Thy Holy protection,' and that every American in his own way lift his voice to heaven.

"I recommend that all of us bear in mind this great Psalm:

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

"He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters.

"He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadw of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

"Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever."

"Inspired with faith and courage by these words, let us turn again to the work that confronts us in this time of national emergency: In the armed services and the merchant marine; in factories and offices; on farms and in the mines; on highways, railways and airways; in other places of public service to the Nation; and in our homes.

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby invite the attention of the people to the joint resolution of Congress approved December 26, 1941, which designates the fourth Thursday in November of each year as Thanksgiving day; and I request that both Thanksgiving day, November 26, 1942, and New Year's day, January 1, 1943, be observed in prayer, publicly and privately.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed."

(SEAL) Done at the City of Washington this eleventh day of November in the year of our Lord, Nineteen Hundred and Forty two, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the One Hundred and Sixty-seventh.

Last Rites for Clare E. Williams Held Saturday

The passing of Edgar Leclare Williams or as he was generally known, Clare E. Williams, was a real shock, as few had known that he had recently suffered a collapse while in Salinas. Those who did had heard that he was improving, but death came suddenly on Friday as a result of the heart attack.

He was a native of Illinois, born April 23, 1876, and was an engineering salesman for the Garrett-Calahan company of San Francisco, with whom he had been associated for the past ten years.

Services were held Saturday afternoon from the Rutherford Funeral Home, with the Rev. J. H. Bennett officiating. Dennis Bennett sang "In the Garden" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" with Mrs. Virginia Rutherford as organist.

Serving as pall bearers were Luther R. Austin, Neil O. Best, T. A.Cutting, E. E. Lanphear, J. D. Hynes and Lloyd Selig.

Inurnment at Oak Hill was private.

Mr. Williams was not very widely known here as his business took him away most of the time, but those who had the opportunity to become acquainted found him very pleasant to meet, always cheerful and gracious.

He leaves his wife, Mina Williams, stepdaughter, Mrs. Blanche C. Aresto of San Jose, and stepson, Stanley Ramsey, now with the U. S. Army Air corps overseas, and grandchildren Jordon and Beverly Ramsey, both of whom have made their home in Campbell, with their grandparents.

The government is asking the American farmer to dedicate the remaining weeks of 1942 to an intensified scrap hunt. Steel mills need more heavy scrap and the farms are one of the best sources of this type of metal. . . . All salvage committees are being instructed to continue to make available to farmers all their transportation facilities and manpower . . . . the nation is looking to the American farmer. I am sure he will come through.

A DAY OF THANKSGIVING

There seems a striking parallel in circumstances between the first Day of Thanksgiving held on this continent and the Day of Thaksgiving set aside in this troubled, grimly-fighting America of 1942.

The Pilgrims, even as we, looked back upon a year of anxiety and peril, a year in which the savage world about them had sought to destroy them, and had inflicted injury and death among them. And the Pilgrims, even as we, looked also back upon a year of bountiful harvest—a harvest that would feed their women and children through the hard winter ahead, and would maintain the strength of the resolute men on guard at the stockade against all enemies that might come.

The harvest for which the American people may give heartfelt thanks to Providence is many-fold. The spirit of America, which our enemies thought weak and open to disruption, has flourished since Pearl Harbor into a mighty oak of unity and will to victory that stands unshaken in the winds of hate that sweep the world. Materially, American brawn and brains and inventiveness and righteous anger have produced a harvest of steel and ships and wings of war that guarantee our ramparts against the greatest military combination that ever set out to overwhelm the world. A bountiful harvest!

There is much more to be thankful for as a nation.

There are no scars of blasted cities and bomb-blackened schoolhouse ruins on our landscape.

No American child need go hungry or become sick because of lack of food and the necessities of life.

Our Allies, in particular the dauntless fighting men and civilian heroes of Russia, China and Britain, stand fast beside us.

We have the means, spiritual and physical, and the friends, to survive the winter of war's travail, however long and bitter that may be, and to create a better America and a finer California when the war is over.

So let us be thankful!

MUSIC HATH CHARMS

Picture the war production workers making bombs to Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata, greasing gauges to Gershwin, or testing to Tschaikowsky! Music, introduced into industry, results in increased production. Why didn't we think of it before! Everyone knows it's good for precision and quickness. Remember how we used to toss the Indian clubs around in gym to some rhythmical air like "School Days," or swing dumbells to "Pony Boy?"

The Stevens Institute of Technology set Professor Harold Burris-Meyer to work testing the effect of melody on production in various factories. He soon announced that production increased from 1.3 per cent to 11.1 per cent. In one factory where music has become the established thing, the rate has been boosted 6.8 per cent.

We're for it, but we wonder if the workers ever get to arguing as to which piece they'd prefer, and whether the welders supply the tap drum effects?

"PHILIPPINE PATTERN"

This month marks the seventh anniversary of the Commonwealth of the Philippines. President Roosevelt, in an address celebrating the event, spoke of the Islands as a "pattern for the future of small nations and peoples, a pattern of global civilization which recognizes no limitations of religion or of creed or of race."

The independence of the Philippines was based primarily on an educational ideal. Its young men and women came to America to study or were taught at home after American ideals. Its training period aimed toward better living, along with the fulfillment of social and economic standards, but most of all toward independent sovereignty, through more self- government. Such training is not dissimilar to that given our youth.Children must learn to follow before they can successfully lead, must learn obedience before they can properly govern themselves. Only the man who knows how to take orders can give them advisedly. Our own country underwent an apprenticeship for democracy, beginning with town and colonial government, then going on through State government before arriving at a Federal government in 1789. Such training gives stability to independence when it comes.

We were justly proud of our relationship with the Philippines when the testing time came. General MacArthur's forces were largely composed of native soldiers who fought with American troops for a common ideal. The pattern worked. It stood when the partnership between colonies and empire failed elsewhere in the Far East.

SOAP FOR RUBBER

We're told the processing of synthetic rubber will use 100,000,000 pounds of soap per year, but no scarcity for the average consumer is anticipated. Our annual soap production is 3,250,000,000 pounds, and the small boy populace of the nation doesn't use its share of that. We'd go without a little soap now and again if it would hurry tires back into being.

LET US REMEMBER GOD

By EDITH DALEY

Long years ago, across a bitter sea
Unto an alien land, for Liberty
To worship God, the Pilgrim Fathers came
And forged a Nation's right—with Faith aflame!
But proud and arrogant, new pilgrims trod
A way of gold, to a forgotten God!
Today, while citadels of soul are rent
With winds of grief that greed and power have sent.
Before the towers fall and domes are dust,
Before the idle plows dissolve in rust,
Let us remember God, and find again
Our prayer-bound kinship with our fellowmen,
And claim our heritage to hold and give—
Man's right to pray, to labor, and to live!

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"Thunder In Heaven" by Armine von Tempski.

"When a person tries to be anything, or to do anything and the world doesn't recognize him — Yes, then there is Thunder in Heaven." Thus the vivacious Island born author of several successful books on the Hawaiian Islands, explains the title of her latest book. Preceding "Thunder In Heaven" by but a little over a year, Miss von Tempski's "Born In Paradise" enjoyed a lengthy stay on the best seller lists and is and will be for many, many years, read and loved.

The same, with perhaps an added phrase of praise, may be said of her latest effort. "Thunder In Heaven" is a novel with the main theme the scientific research and development of a cure for leprosy. Dr. Graham, a brilliant New York specialist, unjustly barred from his medical practice at home, lands in Honolulu on a trip to try and "escape" from himself. Cynical, drunk and insulting, he addresses the heroine of the story, bluntly, as their ocean liner was ready to dock at Honolulu. The beautiful custom of presenting each passenger with a gardenia lei as he arrived in the Islands, Dr. Thord Graham, considered stupid and base; in fact he trampled on the one given him. April Wilde, the lovely lady of the book, and native of the Islands, was hurt and angered and hesitated not to tell him how much his actions disgusted her. April is the daughter of a rich and influential family of the Islands and it is around her home, her father and his possessions that the story revolves. Kauka, a half-white plantation doctor and Dr. Graham work together on their search for a cure. It is in the shadows of Mauna Loa that the story unfolds — with humor and tragedy combined as human lives must always be.

There are many and interesting characters, making this a story of man's humanity to man, of sacrifice, of love and sweet devotion.

There is nothing about war in this novel. It is romantic, and beautifully human.

Laughing Around the World
With IRVIN S. COBB

It Was Coming to a Head

By IRVIN S. COBB

A DRAMA league in a New England city was formed for the purpose of taking itself seriously and having a chance to mix with actors; in other words, it was a regulation league. The society learned that a well-known writer for the stage was to be in town on the night of its next supper and got his written acceptance to attend. On arrival he fell in with some low-lifes and fell hard. He walked into the supper room, convoyed by two companions a bit groggy.

In due time the president arose and felicitated the company on the treat in store and then introduced the visiting lion.

The latter surveyed the party before speaking. His complete address was as follows:

"I am told this is an Ibsen gathering. If that is a fact, I think it ought to be lanced!"

The Unexploded Bomb

One of the foremost rules of Civilian Defense is complete cooperation with your Air Raid Warden. He has been selected and trained to preform a number of duties for your protection and safety. He may have to require you to do things during and after an air raid for which you may not recognize the need or justification. Your best bet is to do them anyway and as soon as he has requested you to do them.

In dealing with unexploded bombs you too have a responsibility, which for your own safety you must not neglect. This responsibility is to give information to your Air Raid Warden about the suspected presence of unexploded bombs.

UXB do not bury themselves deep in the ground, rip through buildings or homes without leaving some disturbance behind. It may be a hole in the roof and floor of your home. It may be a small or large crater in your yard. It may be a hole in the sidewalk or street pavement.

All of these disturbances may indicate that an unexploded bomb has buried itself deep under them.

Your job, and the job of every man, woman and child, is to call these evidences immediately to the attention of your Air Raid Warden. If he cannot be locateed immediate-cannot be located immediate-

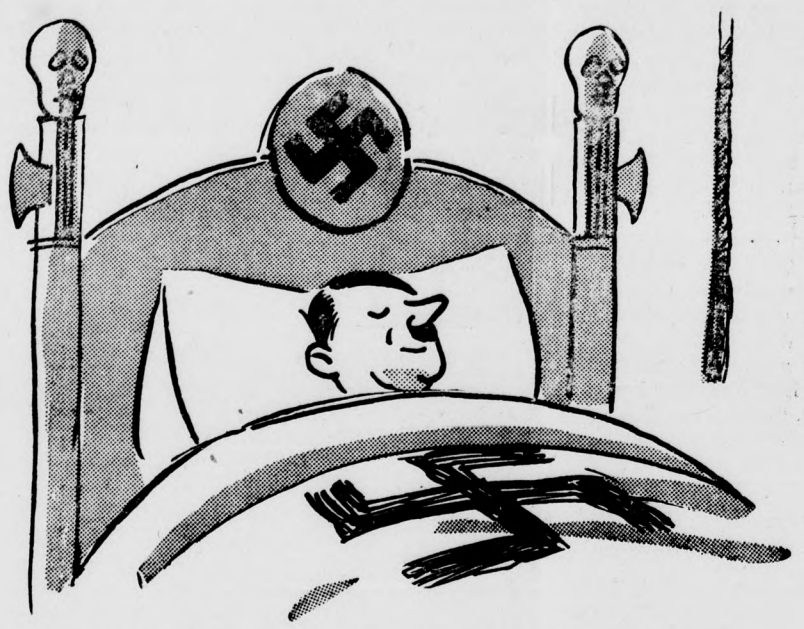
From there on the UXB is NOT your responsibility. A trained and perfected organization is ready to go into immediate action to safeguard you and your family as soon as it has been determined that an UXB has planted itself in your neighborhood. But the trained staffs cannot safeguard you, if they have not been informed of the possible location of an unexploded bomb. It is therefore necessary that you tell your Air Raid Warden immediately whenever you find any of these disruptions after an air raid. If the Bomb Reconnaissance Agent determines the crater or hole was caused by an unexploded bomb, follow his instructions, those of the Air Raid Warden and Auxiliary Police to the letter. If you don't, you endanger yourself and your family.

After a bombing a number of other articles strange to you may be found near your home. These may be pieces of shrapnel, unexploded anti-aircraft shells, unburned or partly burned incendiary bombs, auxiliary airplane gasoline tanks, airplane cannon shells, partly burned or unburned flares or parachute mine caps.

Don't let your collector's instinct get the best of you. Any one of them is potentially dangerous and may go off just at the moment you pick it up for a mantlepiece decoration. These may also be valuable information of the enemy for our armed forces. The rule for you to follow is (1) leave them alone, and (2) inform your Air Raid Warden about them with explicit direction as to location. Let him take care of the details of collection.

To reiterate, if after an air raid you find any evidence of the possible passage of an unexploded bomb, tell your Warden, If you find other evidence of the air attack, strange shells, etc., leave them alone and again, tell your Air Raid Warden.

If you follow these simple instructions you will be helping safeguard your self and your family—and you will be helping to win the war.



This man is not dead. He is just sleeping. And sleeping a little more soundly, perhaps, because there are still many Americans who are not putting at least 10% of their pay into War Bonds on a regular Payroll Savings Plan. How about you joining a lot of other fellows in giving the little paperhanger a rude awakening? How about you signing up with a Payroll Savings Plan today . . . to the tune of not 6%, or 7% or 8%, but 10% and more if you can? LET'S TOP THAT 10% BY NEW YEAR'S.

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO:

If you are . . .

1. Already investing 10% of your pay in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan—boost that 10% if you can.
2. Working in a plant where the Plan is installed, but haven't signed up yet—sign up tomorrow.
3. Working in a plant where the Payroll Savings Plan hasn't been installed, talk to your union head, foreman, or plant manager—and see if it can't be installed right away. The local bank will be glad to help.
4. Unable to get in on the Payroll Savings Plan for any reason, go to your local bank, or wherever Bonds are sold. They will be glad to help you start a Plan of your own.

Your water heater is tough and built to take it, but it will last longer if not abused. Keep your tank free of sediment and rust. Clear the tank about once a month. It's easy to do. Here is how. There is a drain faucet near the bottom of your automatic storage water heater. Attach a hose to this drain faucet. Turn on faucet and let water run into floor drain or laundry tubs or a bucket. Run off tank water until it runs clear. It is not necessary to shut off any valves such as incoming water, gas burner or pilot light. Make sure too that the thermostat on your water heater is set no higher than 140 degrees.

Keep your* AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATER *in use...

It stands ready any hour day or night for hot medicinal drinks or applications and to speed up soap action for washing, scrubbing or cleaning. It will save you time and work and money every time you use it. Should repairs be necessary, have them done at once.
